

MOB ORACLE CANNES

The very subjective guide

CANNES

Sea city

A destination often underlined by its glitter and its emblematic festival, but in reality it conceals a much deeper cultural and human wealth. This subjective guide completely proves it. Beyond the “bling bling” there is another Cannes, where Le Cannet and its Bonnard Museum stands next to the artisan’s workshops of Rue Saint-Sauveur. The centuries-old alleyways recall the history of the Italian families who shaped the face of this town with authenticity. Don't look into this guide for the classic addresses that everyone's talking about. We offer a different point of view of the region.

No matter how hot it is, we recommend walking in Cannes, where you'll always come across sights and details that make you feel you're in a seaside town with a long history. You can even walk through Napoleon's footsteps, even though it's almost impossible to mention his name today...

Walk, walk and above all,
take detours!
